

When to send: Send out the email during the week after class so that students have the link to the website and a reminder that they can find the link in your Canvas site.

Subject: Success Strategies and Resources Reminder

Howdy!

Today we discussed resources that can help you be successful during your time at A&M. The website that we used during class is a resource that you are welcome to return to at any time. This link is also included in our course on Canvas. As a reminder, the following resources are available to you on the Success Strategies and Resources website:

- The 5 Day Study Plan. You are welcome to download and use copies of this tool to use throughout the semester.
- Video from the Honor System Office about academic dishonesty.
- FAQ tab with resources specific to your campus. This tab has common questions and answers from many of the resources we discussed today including the Academic Success Center, the Honor System Office, the University Libraries, and the Writing Center.
- Additional Videos and Resources. These resources include links to resources to help you with time management and planning out your study time as well as videos and other resources to help you be successful during your time at Texas A&M.

If you have questions about which resource best fits your needs, please don't hesitate to contact me or your peer mentor.

Thank you,
